State-Geologist Holmes, has put in an exhibit that attracts attention.

The Supreme Court will hand down its decisions in the appeals from the First District on Tuesday, and will then immediately take up the Second-District appeals.

WILL BE LIVELY.

Judge Coble, who has been holding Wake Superior Court, has gone off for a little rest. He will return on the 21st, and hold the civil term of court. Things will be pretty lively at that term, as several rather sensational cases will come up, among them being the Hawkins will case and the suit of Mr. Kitchen and the nine directors of the penitentlary appointed by the last Legislature. It will be remembered that at the meeting of the legitlimate board last spring the nine the legitimate board last spring the nine legislative appointees were shut out, W. H. Duy, of Weldon, is the attorney for Kitchen (who was appointed as superintendent of the penitentiary), and he, Mr. Day says will never rest until Leazer, the present superintendent, is ousted. From present appearances Mr. Day will be restless a long time.

As will be remembered there was a proposition not long ago to have a mill-tary post established here. At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday the question will come up. Mr. Pogue, of the chamber, has the communications between Governor Carr and the United States Government regarding the matter. It will cost $190.000 to conthe matter. It will cost $110,000 to construct the barracks, but then fully $156,000 will be annually spent here. It is hoped the post will be established.

A BISHOP DEFENDANT.

Case Involving Property-Appeal to Supreme Court.

Supreme Court.

WILMINGTON, N. C., October 5.—A case of some interest was tried in the Superior Court here this week, in which the Rev. Leo Haid, Catholic Bishop of North Carolina, was defendant.

Some years ago Lawrence Brown, a merchant of this city, just before his death conveyed all his property, estimated at 19:00t, to the Catholic Church, through Bishop Haid. Brown's heirs, who live in the State of Ohio, brought suft to recover, and the jury to-day returned a verdict in their favor. An appeal was taken by defendant to the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

Wilson's Tobacco Market.

Wilson's Tobacco Market.

WILSON, N. C., October 5.—(Special.)—
Up to the 1st of October there were sold on this market, since the 1st of August, 2,520,601 pounds of tobacco. These figures were reported and sworn to by the warehousemen at the last meeting of the Tobacco Board of Trade.

No other market in North Carolina has shown as large a record, and it is befleved that Wilson is so far in the lead.
Every day during September the sales were tremendous, and both sellers and buyers were worked almost down.

Business is unusually good. Merchants say that last September was the best month for business this town has ever known.

Mr. W. T. Clark, a well-kown citizen of this town, died yesterday of rheuma-ism. He was about 80 years of age, and ighly respected.

(The Spectator.)
The black swans nest regularly in the pard on a heap of peat, and during the whole period of incubation the male bird shares the duty of sitting. The female sits all night, and comes off at 7 in the morning. The male sits through the day, and resigns at 5 in the evening. But during the last few days, the female takes a larger share of the duty, and on the day before the eggs break she keeps the nest all the time. Her maternal instinct is awake to the importance of being on the spot to render first aid to the cygnets on their coming into the world. When the time comes for letting the female out with her young, she walks up to the cage where the male bird is still confined, and has a little talk with him before taking her family down to the water. None the less, when first he returns to her, she will have nothing to say to him.

This year the black swan brought off our cygnets; one died, but the others four cygnets; one died, but the others have done well, and are by this time large and vigorous birds—too large to be any longer taken on their mother's back while she dips down into the water-a favorite amusement with them in their early days amusement with them in their early days.

A peculiar charm of these beautiful birds is their musical cry—a light run upon two or three clear, reedy notes, suggesting a fairy bugle-call. Natives of Western Austrails, where the seasons are the inverse of our own, their natural breeding-time is in October, but in northern countries they gradually adapt themselves to different conditions. The fleet will remain here until Monday, when their future movements may be developed.

W. J. Johnson.

At a meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of the city of Richmond, October 5, 1856, called by the president to take appropriate action in memory of the late W. J. Johnson, who was for many years a vice-president of the association, and who has been for a long period identified with the organization and prominent in the mercantile interest of the city, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Major Johnson possessed in a pre-eminent degree that dignity of charac-ter, suavity of manner, loyalty to prin-ciple, devotion to duty, courtesy of naciple, devotion to duty, courtesy of nature that has always characterized that type of the Virginia gentieman of the old school that is fast passing away.

In life he enjoyed that confidence and inspired that respect of his brother merchants that is born of stern integrity and fair dealings with his fellow man. He was in war a brave and courageous soldier, recognizing the fact that when his country called it was his duty to obey. In civic affairs he had the courage of his convictions, and the will and force of character to maintain them. These qualities united with the virtues of a Christian gentieman, entitled and secured to him the respect and friendship of all who knew him.

frock for evening, two or three separate walsts, and an extra skirt to relieve the serge, are sufficient for the winter wardrobe of a well-dressed young girl. In summer one requires more changes, but print and muslin and gingham frocks are cheap, and, if neatly made, are always appropriate. Of under-clothing have as simple a supply as you can take care of. The dainty girl likes to be clothed in fresh and clean garments, next the skin, and where her clothing is not seen. These garments may be of fine and nice material, but the school-girl and the young woman should avoid elaborate frills and puffs and tucks, embroideries, and laces, for these are easily torn, and are hard upon the laundress. Of stockings a half-dozen pairs are necessary; of handkerchiefs, two or three dozen, and of linen for the neck and wrists enough to insure one's personal perfect neatness on every occasion. Gloves and shoes are important parts of a young lady's outfit. Of the former two pairs, one for best and one for common wear, will probably be enough to have at once, and of the latter, if you can afford it, have three or four pairs, outdoor and indoor uses, A young woman whose gloves and boots are good of their kind, and in nice order, will always appear well-dressed. A waterproof cloak, a thick warm jacket, and two hats, one a toque, trim and dainty, the other a wider and more picturesque affair, with a brim, and feathers, ribbons, or flowers for trimming, will meet all exigencies. A Critical Deadhead.

(London World.)

Of the stories Mr. Hollingshead tells it would be hard to beat this one about Charles Mathews: The waiter at the Manchester Hotel having been sent with an order to the theatre by Mathews to see Mathews, was asked by Mathews to see Mathews, was asked by Mathews to see Mathews, was asked by Mathews to her came back how he liked Mathews, and after some hesitation said: "Who's going to pay me for my time?"

AN INSECT'S QUEER APPETITE.

An Universal Coccan Cables to Anything Else.

A curious fact was brought to the attention of the cable laid across from Vedinesday, says the London News. A portion of the cable laid across from Portpatrick to Donaghadee was shown around, and it was pointed out that the five insulated copper wires constituting an an interest may be added to the core of the cable—the real telegraphic conductor—were incased in a sheathing of brass, which had been wound around them in the form of a thin metal tape.

The object of this was to protect the water gets in, and the conducting power guita-percha insulation from the attack of the cable is at an end.

The curious fact is that the of the gribble were unknown in a days of ocean telegraphy, and it peculiar taste is not only an acquired taste of the graphs. At present the fashion opercha eating does not go furthe than Portpatrick. But it has loo moving northward, and will soon versal. The brass proves an ebarrier so far, but whether the denizens of the deep may not by find even metal tape a piquant
